INCAI SZEFIGGTERSNEST. There is a growing feeling in the District in lawer of local self-government, and so that kind of rule is in sympathy with the new mile in struction the presences of securing it are growing better and better every tur. There are a great many things surrounding a bome government ruled by for-rigners which are peculiarly and positively objectionable to the perpie who have to submit to it. SOUTHERN MEN AT WORK.

The resolution of the business men of emphis, Tennessee, is one of the prous straws that show which way the parameter straws that show which way the positical wind is blowing. Here it is:

Resulted, That we half with satisfaction and approval the broad departure of Prosident Hayes room the policy which has characterised the administration of the most eight years, and that we pledge ourselves, without regard to past or present political associations or sulfistions, to untold and enterin him to every just and constitutional measures or act of his administration having tor Its eight him to be permanent positionation and recent sustant time to ever the summistration having tor signer the permanent pacification and reconstitute the permanent pacification and reconstitute of the people and States of the Federal con; and in this said be it turther scotted. That we heartily indoores and approve anomatment at our distinguished fellow sitt. Bun, D. M. Kay, to the position of Postmas-temperal and that our thanks are due to Mr.

What better sign of future reconciliation pence and prosperity can the American people wish for than this? All of the com-mitter which framed there resolutions are ex Confiderates. That they are sincere no one will quest on. That they will heartily support an Administration which aims to haild up the wests places in the South there is no doubt. That they will lead a hear-y help to the Southern policy about to be premulgated the resolutions themselves are sufficient assurance. Radicalism is dead. The gory garment is buried. Hope is revived, and peace and prosperity are coming on apace.

IF ANY ONE can doubt that there is a radical change fest creeping over the sur-face of American politics we have simply to refer them to the promising fact that Parson BROWNLOW has recomm nded Mr. Eav for a Cabinet position. The Parson at one time outradicaled radicalism.

THE ENA OF PROSPERITY HAS SOT IN!

Washington is steadily growing, both in beautiful residences and population. On every side new improvements are seen and signs of prosperity are visible. building business of the city has un doubtedly been one of its great and profit-able interests, and, as a rule, the work does credit to the builders. Two years ago there were twice as many dwellings and stores to let as there are now. This is a positive sign of a goodly increase in busi ess and inhabitants. This may be owing to the fact that the people have taken ad vantage in the reduction of the price of real satate and buildings. New comers tind it profitable to invest their capital in propcrty, which is at present sold at temptingly low prices, and as Washington is rapidly reasing in its commercial interests as well as its social and climatic attractions, rich people from all parts of the nation are coming to the capital to make it their permanent home. From all appearances the present arason will witness a remarkable development in building and business enterprises in Washington which has never been equaled before in the history of the city. From all appearances the "era of prosperity has sot in."

A NEW DEPARTURE.

These are days of wondrous develop-ments. For years past the temperance question has divided the Republican party, and row it passes like an entering wedge into the Democratic organization. We scarcely expected any dissension on that subject from that source, "Bourbonically' speaking. Tun Albany Evening Journal almanae for 1877 has come to band. It is recognized everywhere as one of the standard publica tions of this kind; and we need not say more of it than it has been compiled with its usual accuracy. The electoral returns are full, the statistics have been conveniently arranged, and a wise choice has been exercised in the choice of matter to be printed. The astroalcal phenomena, the internal revenue re ceipts, the summaries of the persons constitut-ing the National and State Governments, the report of the proceedings of the Electoral Ac., make the almanac invaluable to politica' events.

SENATOR J. G. BLAINE's speeches would car., more weight if he would be more accurate in his statements of fact. For example, in his speech of Wednesday, speaking of Paca and's right to the Governorship of Louisians

he said:
"There may be some trobnicality, there may be some keen form of lopic which I have not yet heard, and of which I do not think I shall ever be able to comprehend, by which a man who received nearly a the joint more view than the electoral tricket received was not elected Governer when the electoral ticket was chosen."

The election returns of Louisiana do not bear out this assettion. By the Returning Hoard count the Republican electors for the State at large received 75,135 votes, and by the same count PACKARD received 74,631 rotes for Governor. Take the Dem votes for Governor. Take the Democratic count; it retu-ucd 77,174 votes for the Repub-lican electors for the State at large, and 76,477 votes for Packard for Governor. By neither of those counts did PACKARD receive as many votes as HAYES. It would promote the credibility of Mr. BLAINE if he would make his as-

JUDGE DAVID DAVID does not turn out to be a first class investment for the Democratic be a Bratchase investment to the Democratic party. He gave assurances to the Republican caucus at Washington that he was not a Dem-crat; that, while he should maintain his in-dependence, he shall vote with the Republicans, and will support the Administration of President HAYES. His explanation was so clear was selected as a Republican, and appointed as such to the Judiciary and another committee. The Democratic caucus seems to have been seriously disgrantled by this action of Judge Davis, but we do not understand why. Judge

Davis was never a Democrat, nor did he ever Davis was never a barrocyst, nor this never profess to be. His name was used at Cincinnati and at St. Louic as a candilate for the Democratic nomination without any authority from him that he was a Democrat. That he is and will be an irdependent and fearless Senator we have no doubt. He will vote on all questions as his indoment, may direct; but being an anti-clavery man all his life, and never having acted with the Democratic party, he will naturally vote with the Republicans, except on such questions of minor consequence as his judgment may incline him to vote otherwise

Gustave Dors-the hardest worked mar in Paris-takes his rest characteristically in ratis—takes his rest characteristically every Sunday night by enfertaining fifty friends and a perfect tunnit of good-fellowship. His Limity makes up a goodly portion of the number, in cluding three generations, all living in his patri-archial manion. Of the invited guests some are scientists, some are literary men, and some are settless.

Few officials will retire with the out going Administration more generally regretted than Assistant Secretary Gorham, of the Interior De partment. He has secured the religious and ad-miration of all with whom his duties have brough him in contact by his court your manyers, pahim in contact by an sourthous mailbers, patient habits of investigation, accurate judgment am remarkable executive shifty. At the satietia tion of Secretary Chandier he accepted his present office on his return from Europe, with the intention of retiring with Mr. Chandler the states.

AN INTERESTING LETTER FOR THE SIMBLE OF THE INTERNATIONAL PROTECOL.

LONDON, Merch 13.—A Vienna correspondent says the information that the negotiations now proceeding turn on the signing of an international control of the new confirmed from so many now proceeding turn on the signing of an inter-national profit of its now confined from so many sides that it cannot be doubted. The Porto is to piedge livelf, in a protocol countersigned by the Powers, that it will carry out the reforms agreed upon by the Powers in the preliminary confer-ence. This may be taken as the essence of the Russian propriate.

Russia does not seem to have abandoned the hope of finding a form for the international document which will overcome British objections. Count Schouwsloth will overcome British objections. Count Schouwsloth is thought some such form has been found. The correspondent a legges he has good internation that Russia is ready to make great cancersions as regards form, provided the rasil exence of the proposal is excepted. Not only does there seem to be no infention to hask upon an agreement about eventual measurers of no errico, but everything is to be avoided, beyond present assent to and signature by the Powers of the protocol, which usight entail obligations for the inture. Russia does not seem to have abandoned the

In this way it is thought the assent of England may be secured. On the other hand the protocol would be so framed * not to oblige the Peric to sign the document is contradiction with the attitude it has taken throughout the negotiations. There will, consequently, be no question of direct fatervention of the Powers in the internal affairs tater-cention of the Powers in the internal sharr of Turkey relative to the nomination of govern-ors or commissioners of control or guarantee, generally. It seems flaws a even means to show the greatest linerality in granting time to Tur-key to carry out the reform.

Although these concessions anow a sincere do

Rey to carry out the reform.

Although these concessions show a sincers desire for peace, and although the satisfaction which Russia will obtain appears triffing, she will yet obtain her object, vis. The right of control over Terkey and the cancellation of the treaty of Paris. The Ports, having been early informed of the foregoing propocals, tried to parry it by issuing its last note appellying eleven measures of reform which it was riversy putting into operation. Turkey therein grants almost more than Russia asks for.

There is, of course, considerable difference between the note and the international protocol; but still the note is a negotiation by Tarkey of certain obligations toward the guist anciesing Powers. The question is, can Russia be induced to accept this imperied mode of assusing the obligation or will Turkey, having gone thus far, gostill further?

Georgia. Concerning Barker, Agent Chamber-lain writes:

"He has not elept at home for two years, except occasionally on Saturday and Sanday eights, the nights on which revenue ratis are saidon; if over made. Knowing this, the revenue officers, with their military casest, determined upon a Sunday night capture. About halfpast one o'clock Studay morning we reached a point shout two miles from his hours. There we en-tered the woods; dismounted, tied our hereas to trees in a very sectuated spot, and then presented very quietly and stealthily on foot. Not a word was spoken; cerryfiling were as quiet as the grave. We crept along contibusly, passing up and down steps and denivaties, across ravines and creek, until 4. but the guide whispers, and down stops and donvalles, across ravines and create, until at last the guide whispers, "There's his house."

Looking forward a distance of about one hundred yards we saw the log-cabin of our hold and daught had the house completely surrounded. So carefully had we replied held that the waithful dog never backed until we were within the inclosure. Then he gave the align, but too late, fortunately for us.
